 Nzunkhane Mutswang honeymoon

Nzunkhane Mutswang, 24, was married on 28 December 2002. He was a former student of the National University of Malawi and was employed by the Malawi police. He was shot dead by police officers on 1 January 2003.

The police claimed that they were responding to a disturbance when they opened fire on Nzunkhane. However, witnesses reported that Nzunkhane was unarmed and had not been involved in any disturbance.

The Human Rights Commission of Malawi (HRCM) is investigating the incident.

HRCM Chairman, Mr. Issac M. Chisembe, said that the Commission would conduct a thorough investigation into the circumstances surrounding Nzunkhane's death.

Mr. Chisembe said that the Commission would also examine the police officers' conduct during the shooting.

The HRCM has requested that the police provide a full report of the incident.

The Malawi government has not yet commented on the incident.

Nzunkhane Mutswang is survived by his wife and two children.
